

Carina Khorkhordina (1991, Kaliningrad, Russia) is an artist and a trumpet player living in Berlin since 2014. Through her work with photography, sound, and improvisation in music and other fields she's recently been focusing on bringing together different disciplines, people and methods to create a situation of exchange, collaboration and feedback.

Since 2016 she is a student of various programs at FotoDepartament Institute in St. Petersburg, Russia. In 2017 started to play concerts and perform in the context of improvised and experimental music in Berlin.

Currently she is working with the trumpet player Axel Dörner and percussionist Burkhard Beins on a series of photographs and recordings at particular locations in Berlin, as well as playing concerts in various settings. Her recording with Eric Bauer, a musician from Berlin who plays electronics, has been released on AA-REC, an online platform "dedicated to recording performances of Electroacoustic, Improvised and New musics of particular merit."
