

BIOGRAPHY

Denis Shulepov was born in the city of Vuktyl, Russia.

He studied physics at a university and spent his free time studying photography. After university he worked in a newspaper.

Attended courses in the photodepartment in St. Petersburg.

He was always interested in the society in which he grew up, in which he lives now.

It is a society that emerged on the border of the epochs, when the historical context changed.

In a new context, society tried to define itself.

These attempts at self-determination were not fixed, did not become a new story, but dispersed into thousands of artifacts - speech, behavior, a sense of beauty and national idea.

From the very beginning of his photographic practice, Denis wanted to find some general formulations of this process.

At first he tried to understand this process through the photographic fixation of the characteristic visual artifacts and situations, their juxtaposition.

After that he moved on to the construction of objects to express his thoughts more accurately.
